Wow! I cannot believe that we have just finished our final full week of school for this school year. Next week is full of closing services and good-byes for the summer. As the ending of this school year approaches, I am choosing to reflect on the words in Psalm 37:5-6.

Everything we do should be done for God. When we are faithful to Him and hand over our troubles and worries, He Will Act! God's got this! Whatever worries try to consume you, know that God is an active God and will be there with you in all of it.

I pray that you are able to celebrate your child's lasts that will come in the next few days: last day of Kindergarten, last day of elementary or middle school, etc., end of the year celebrations, etc., and know that God has a whole string of wonderful firsts prepared for your child and you in the future.
serving Him at T-SJ,
Mrs. Amy Kurtz
